Vervia

Lane 210 Taikang Lu, No 46, 5466 7832
泰康路210弄, 46号

What: The first retail outlet in Shanghai for Verve Design, featuring eclectic home furnishings, glassware, apparel, jewelry, and knick knacks.

Look: "To be classy, but not classic" is one of the stated missions of Vervia. The store reflects Verve Design's funky melange of tastes, including both Italian and Asian influences. Brightly colored pink and orange patterned lamps and cushions accent the room, with over sized stylized portraits of the Buddha casting a knowing eye on customers below. The ideal store for finding that one-of-a-kind gift for your friends and relatives... or to treat yourself. A bar sits in the corner of the shop, offering coffee and beer for shoppers in need of a pick me up (or calm me down) refreshment.

Buy: Products range from chairs to tzotzkies, so you're bound to find something that strikes your fancy. We liked their stainless steel cocktail shakers (¥258) as well as a mini stainless steel domino set (¥98), one of their most popular items. Their T-shirts sport a cute, quirky character named Joe Phat (¥228) who finds himself in funny, simply drawn scenarios that fit nicely on the black and white tees. We also liked the timepieces with silk bands – the green and pink floral printed one (¥168) seemed a perfect gift for a friend with style.

People: Taikang Lu strollers looking to spruce up their digs with something out of the ordinary.

Hours: Daily, 10am-7pm.
